A B O U T U S

Xponents, Inc. is an organizational performance and talent development consultancy that designs, develops, and delivers cutting-edge team member transformation programs. Xponents' experienced resources also provide coaching services for individuals and teams. Our focus is on elevating individuals, teams, and organizations above self-imposed limitations to recognize their limitless potential through honoring and unleashing the unique values, vision, purpose, and talents inherent in all.

Company Principal:

Deb Siverson founded Xponents in 2003 to help organizations bring out the best in their people. She believes this is accomplished, in part, by having more authentic conversations in the workplace. Deb is the creator of the coaching series, Cycle of Transformation, designed to improve performance by helping managers have a positive impact on team members through enhanced communication and coaching skills. Deb is a certified coach, author, master speaker, and facilitator. She has her master's degree in organizational leadership from CU Boulder.

Past Performance:

Xponents has worked with a variety of clients in large and small firms. Xponents has designed and delivered unique customized workshops that enhance individual and team effectiveness. Xponents has also developed training programs that target effectiveness gaps, allowing participants to hone their knowledge and skills to improve proficiency. Xponents employs a variety of adult learning techniques to engage participants. The interaction and connection with each individual is key to improved understanding of the concepts and materials presented.

With all the ups and downs of the economy and the various dramas in the business world in recent years, good leadership is more crucial than ever before. But the old methods don't seem to produce the desired results any longer.

Author Deb Siverson knows this from firsthand experience. She worked for twenty years under the old productivity-based coaching model before she was introduced to a more relational approach. But rather than exchange one for the other, she realized that both models had something to offer. So she blended their effective aspects and created her own coaching model: The Cycle of Transformation.

The CYCLE of TRANSFORMATION

igniting organizational change through the leader coach

DEB SIVERSON

Now, leaders can learn how to become “leader coaches” who empower their employees to fully engage with the company, resulting in a mutually beneficial connection that improves job satisfaction—which leads to increased productivity and profits.

Approaching their role relationally, leader coaches play an important role in transforming their employees’ lives at work. And this is no small accomplishment.

Often enlightening and always practical, The Cycle of Transformation informs readers how to develop trust, why it’s important to spark insight before pushing for action, and so much more.

Executive Coaching

Overview

A coaching engagement that includes a comprehensive written introductory interview, Emotional Intelligence^{2.0} self-assessment, evaluation, goal setting, action planning, observations with feedback, and coaching support.

Xponents' methodology emphasizes shared goals and clear success measures. The intent is not to create dependency, but to transfer the investment of time and money to the bottom line of the organization and toward the ultimate purpose and potentiality of the leader.

Xponents' coaches are all certified by the International Coaching Federation. These hour-long coaching sessions typically take place virtually, twice monthly during the 6-month engagement.

Who will benefit:

- Leaders in transition:
 - New role/expanded responsibilities.
 - Changing culture/environment.
- Leaders in need of developing fresh approaches/new skills.
- Leaders who need to take their team to the next level.

Through this offering, participants will:

- Gain self-awareness that leads to insight, action, and transformation.
- Improve their effectiveness by identifying and removing obstacles that prevent them from achieving their goals.

Details

A six-month coaching engagement that equates to approximately 20 hours of interviews, assessments, evaluation, goal setting, action planning, observation, and coaching support. Our methodology emphasizes shared goals and clear success measures. Our intent is not to create dependency, but to transfer the investment of time and money to the bottom line of the organization and toward the ultimate purpose and potentiality of the leader we coach.

Hourly Leadership Coaching

Overview

As the marketplace has become increasingly competitive and fast-moving, organizations recognize they must work with speed and precision to enable the achievement of critical business objectives. The focus of coaching is to support good performers to accelerate personal development, practice continual learning and growth, and make the most of their capabilities and potential. In some organizations the cry has become, how do we get better, faster?

At Xponents, our coaching services focus on the development of leaders. We believe that leading is not a position, but a state of mind and so we think of ourselves as Leadership Coaches. Our emphasis is on working with the leader's behaviors, style, vision, values, and purpose. We support leaders in identifying areas of focus to improve their own effectiveness, and the effectiveness of the organization they serve. We also coach to instill a capability in the leader to move organizational effectiveness by helping the leader become a better coach.

Who will benefit:

- Leaders in transition:
 - New role/expanded responsibilities.
 - Changing culture/environment.
- Leaders in need of developing fresh approaches/new skills.
- Leaders who need to take themselves or their team to the next level.

Through this offering, participants will:

- Gain self-awareness that leads to insight, action, and transformation.
- Improve their effectiveness by identifying and removing obstacles that prevent them from achieving their goals.

Details

Coaching that supports identifying areas of opportunity, goal setting, and action planning. Xponents' methodology emphasizes supporting the coaching client with identification and attainment of goals. Xponents' coaches are all certified by the International Coaching Federation. These hour-long coaching sessions typically take place virtually.

Coaching the Coach

Overview

Coaching the Coach is a coaching service that supports Leader Coaches to enhance their coaching ability. Organizations are often limited with resources who can provide coaching expertise and mentorship to developing Leader Coaches. Xponents Master Coaches observe and provide behaviorally based feedback. The coaching relationship focuses on developing self-awareness of coaching priorities and creating collaborative action plans to accelerate coaching outcomes. Typical observations include coaching interactions, team meetings, and presentations.

Optimum coaching alliances span a minimum of three months with an average of one observation and two hour-long coaching sessions each month over the phone.

Who will benefit:

- Leaders in need of developing fresh approaches/new skills.
- Leaders who need to take their team to the next level.
- Leaders who have recently completed Context of Coaching.

Through this offering, participants will:

- Gain self-awareness that leads to insight, action, and transformation.
- Be able to integrate fundamental coaching skills into real world situations.

Details

A coaching engagement that encompasses observation and coaching support, both in-person and virtually. Our methodology emphasizes examining specific situations to identify leadership behaviors and patterns that are impacting Leader Coach effectiveness. From this level of awareness, leaders can make new choices and act in ways that create intentional outcomes.

Skill Reinforcement Pods

Overview

Skill Reinforcement Pods are virtual group coaching sessions that reinforce skills and behaviors, deepen learning, and hold group members accountable for practicing new and desired protocols. Common uses for this service involve sustaining the learning around a recent business initiative such as teaching supervisors and managers how to coach effectively. The sessions combine facilitated learning modules, on the job assignments, group coaching from a certified coach, and social interaction and peer coaching in a virtual community of practice. Certified Systems Coaches use group coaching to tie all the elements together.

Our approach to transferring and sustaining learning encompasses a combination of on the job assignments, activity debriefs and coaching, and group accountability in a virtual community of practice.

Participants who will benefit:

- Those who recently completed one of our leadership development workshops and would benefit from additional reinforcement and support.
- Those who completed the workshop in the past but would benefit from a refresher.
- Those who have managers that are lacking in experience or the time to provide coaching and reinforcement.

Through this offering, participants will:

- Awareness through practice of skills and processes during real-time interactions and through the collective experience of the group.
- Accelerate the transfer of key concepts into specific work situations that are typical and/or challenging.
- Learn tips and best practice ideas from the field.
- Observe Demo Coaching Models conducted by Master Coaches.

Details

75-minute coaching sessions that utilize a virtual meeting place, twice monthly during the 3-month engagement (6 sessions and a kick-off meeting). Typical pod sizes are 6-8 participants per group.

Consulting services to customize job assignments that are relevant to business objectives are not included in the coaching package. These services are found under Consulting, Content Development, and Delivery. Xponents scopes content development based on clients specialized needs.

Leadership Coaching Circles

Overview

Leadership Coaching Circles are a virtually facilitated group process that focuses on what is needed most to enhance leader-effectiveness and move an intact work team to the next level of performance. Certified Systems Coaches ask compelling questions intended to move the group to a new level of thinking and challenge the group to uncover innovative and creative solutions to support new levels of performance. These facilitated group briefings and discussions enable collaborative and focused decision making. The ultimate objective is to develop a community of practice that is able to become independent and self-directed.

Who will benefit:

- Teams looking for opportunities to strengthen their relationships and increase their productivity and positivity.
- Leaders and Managers that want an innovative and organic learning process.
- Business professionals in leadership positions interested in developing their coaching and leadership skills.
- Managers who have just learned a new skill set and would benefit from support as they integrate and reinforce the learning.

Through this offering, participants will:

- Identify, strategize, develop, and execute an action plan on the team's greatest business priority.
- Recognize team skills and toxins; the importance of balancing vision, strategy, and tactics; the power of leveraging diverse strengths and experiences inherent in teams.

Details

Hour-long coaching sessions utilizing a virtual meeting space, twice monthly during three-month engagements (six sessions and a kick-off meeting). Typical Leadership Coaching Circle sizes are six-eight participants per group.

Relationship Systems Coaching

Overview

From time to time, working relationships become strained or grow stagnant. Systems Coaches work with individuals that have a reporting, partner, or peer working relationship that has become strained, is in crisis, or is at risk of having a negative impact on the individuals or the organization. Relationship Systems Coaches support defining, refining, and resolving disputes, disagreements, and divergent views. Working with a Relationship Coach will provide the skills needed to enhance productivity and work satisfaction.

During this customized coaching engagement, recipients learn and practice the art of creating agreements, gain awareness of old ways of operating that are ineffective, and utilize partnering skills that strengthen the working relationship. Shared goals and desired outcomes will be agreed upon at the onset of the engagement with the appropriate manager or executive sponsor.

Relationship Coaching is right for certain members of your organization if you've ever worried about the cost of dysfunctional relationships in the workplace.

Who will benefit:

- Working relationships that have become dysfunctional.
- New working relationships where the stakes are high.
- Unproductive working relationships that lack creativity and collaboration.

Through this offering, participants will:

- Walk away with practical skills and tools the work relationship can use to:
 - Discuss differing points of view.
 - Align around a common purpose.
 - Tell a difficult truth.
 - Mend relationships.

Details

A tailored coaching engagement, typically virtual, that includes individual coaching, joint coaching, and managerial check-ins. Xponents will determine the number of individual and joint coaching sessions based on the specific needs of the relationship in question.

- Assist participants in developing a strategy to enhance strengths and mitigate challenges related to Emotional Intelligence competencies

MBTI at Work

Program Length: 1 day

Delivery Method: virtually or in-person

Maximum Participants: 24

Overview

The MBTI Step II Instrument is the result of many years of research and observation that began with Isabel Myers' development of the MBTI personality inventory in the 1940s. The basic versions of the instrument yield type descriptions distinguishing the sixteen types from one another but offer relatively few clues as to how people of the same type may differ. In adding items that were not scored for four letter type Myers' intent was to enable exploration and identification of individuality within each of the sixteen types. MBTI at Work will provide background information on the assessment tool, support participants in interpreting and validating personal results, and expanding their thinking on the value of different ways of perceiving information and making decisions at work.

Through this course, participants will:

- Understand and appreciate the 20 facets of the 16 personality types.
- Apply the Step II tool as a framework for positively describing and understanding personality.
- Value the differences that each type brings to tasks and teams.

Agenda

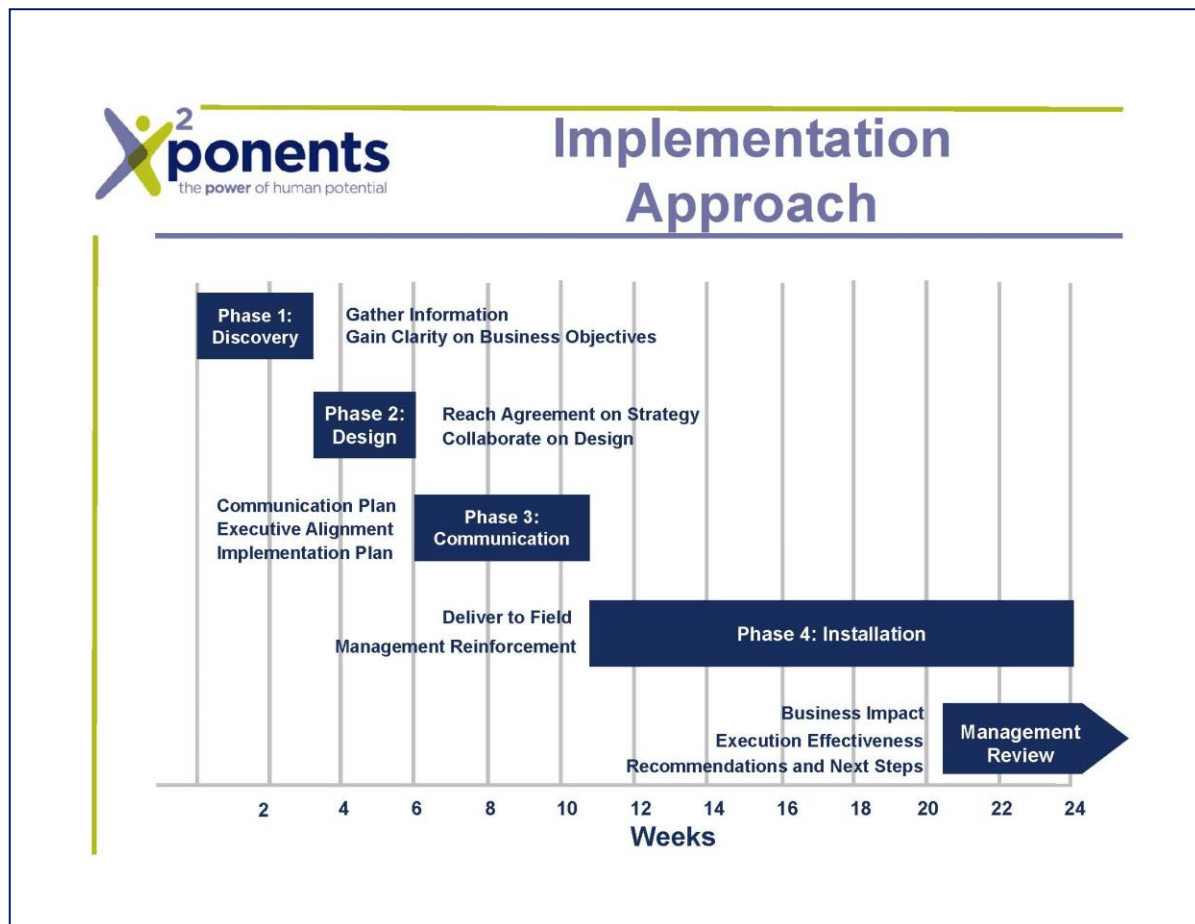

- Define the MBTI Step I Preferences
- Understand the 16 Personality Types
- Verification of Participants "Best-Fit" Type
- Team Type Table
- Apply type information to our teamwork.
- Individual and team action plan

Consulting, Content Development and Delivery

Overview

Organizational performance consulting supports the discovery, design, development, and delivery of customized or tailored solutions to address a desired change needed at the individual, team, or organizational level. Xponents' expertise in change management, group process, business acumen, leadership development, and individual or team/systems coaching skills provides clients with cutting edge learning programs that meet their unique needs. This ensures clients receive quality solutions that engage and support sustained behavior and cultural change.

Master Consultants have more than ten years of experience designing, developing, and delivering programs for organizations. Xponents delivery services also include train-the-trainers.

EQ-i 2.0 Self-Assessment with One-Hour Consult

Overview

The individual assessment measures self-perception, self-expression, interpersonal skill, decision making, and stress management aspects of Emotional Intelligence. Using an EQi assessment supports individuals in their professional and personal development by creating greater awareness of attitudes and behaviors that impact success in work and life. Xponents utilizes EQ-i 2.0[®] Self-Assessment, which asks people how they would perform in a given situation. Unlike ability-based measures where people perform tasks to show their skills, respondents rate their own Emotional Intelligence skill use. The self-assessment is completed online. Based on the assessment report, certified EQ-i 2.0[®] coaches ask compelling questions intended to move the individual to a new level of awareness and challenges the individual to uncover innovative and creative solutions to support new levels of performance. Xponents provides the participants with an electronic assessment report and a one-hour telephonic coaching consult to support the identification of areas of focus with tactics that have the potential for dramatically impacting success at work and in life.

EQ-i 2.0 360-Assessment with 90-Minute Consult

Overview

A 360[°] assessment measures the same components of self-perception, self-expression, interpersonal skill, decision making, and stress management aspects of Emotional Intelligence but from the perspective of the individual and his or her colleagues. The 360[°] Assessment is ideal for leadership development work. Xponents utilizes the EQ-i 2.0[®] Self-Assessment, and 360[°] multi rater tool. The 360[°] goes beyond the individual responder and asks for input from key stake holders of the developing leader. The self-assessment and the 360[°] multi rater tool are completed online. Based on the assessment report, certified EQ-i 2.0[®] coaches ask compelling questions intended to move the individual to a new level of awareness and challenges the individual to uncover innovative and creative solutions to support new levels of performance. Xponents provides participants with an electronic assessment report and a 90-minute telephonic coaching consult to support the identification of areas of focus with tactics that have the potential for dramatically impacting success at work and in life.

MBTI Self-Assessment with One-Hour Consult

Overview

The MBTI® tool is based on 50 years of research and is used to identify personality type. It can help you find your strengths, note possible blind spots, and improve your communications. We use the Myers-Briggs assessment tool as a stand-alone assessment, as part of a coaching package or as a tool when working with teams. Knowing your type and that of others in your life can help you understand and appreciate differences in relationships with friends, family members and co-workers.

Human Patterns with One-Hour Consult

Overview

Great organizations succeed with effective leadership, healthy cultures and engaged employees. The Human Patterns Inventory enables data driven decision making regarding how best to prioritize areas of focus. The design of the tool enables identification of preferences and interests, safeguards against over-generalizations, and creates opportunities for open, candid communication as people engage in personal and professional growth!

The 250 question assessment forces individuals to make 2000 decisions. Factors captured are grouped to cover: Keys to Personality, Basic Motivations, Preferred Work Roles, Likely Leadership Behaviors, Direction of Energy, Criteria for Management Choices, World Views, Sensitivities, Team Interaction, Interpersonal Relations, Defenses Used When Confronted, Preferred work environment, and others.

The Human Patterns Inventory is administered by psychometrically trained administrators who specialize in coaching, training, leadership development, and employee relations.
